

Software Engineer

Description

You will join an existing, motivated and productive development team in delivering enterprise-level solutions. This exciting opportunity would allow you to strengthen and enhance your technical and leadership skills. The role is based in the Shanghai but will involve working closely with colleagues based in Singapore, US, Europe and throughout Asia.

Responsibilities

You will be responsible for

- Designing and developing software modules which adhere to published standards for coding and design to solve business problems as outlined in the functional specifications
- Writing technical design document for modules to be developed and make modification to reflect any technical modifications made during the coding and testing process
- Working with project managers, business analysts, and architects to ensure clarity of specifications
- Ensuring that expected application performance levels are achieved
- Performing and participating in coding and code reviews

Requirements

- Master or BS degree in Computer Science, Computer Engineering or equivalent education.
- More than 3 years related working experiences
- Strong .Net, C# development skills, familiar with .NET 3.5 framework.
- With solid Winform programming experience
- Strong development background with good knowledge in database related concepts.
- Strong object orientated methodology and proven track record in larger scale developments are a plus.
- Experience in .NET Remoting, Web services
- SQL server 2008 experience strongly desired
- Visual Studio 2010 Team System experience a plus
- Good communication skills, both oral and written in English
- Demonstrated analytic and problem solving capabilities
- Self-starter with excellent analytical, organizational and time management skills
- Fast learner with quality consciousness and commitment to deadlines
- Ability to work well within a team environment